Will Jones, the hostler arrested a few nights ago on suspicion of being the man wanted in Terre Haute, Ind., for embezzlement, was brought before the police court this morning and after being questioned was told he could go. He answers the description sent here by the Indiana authorities, and was found at the Terrell livery stable.

He denied this morning ever even being in Terre Haute, declaring that he came from Memphis. As there was no evidence against him, and no word had been received from Terre Haute, he was told he could go.

Jones, however had told at the livery stable that he had been in both Evansville and Terre Haute before he came here.

Adolph Holland, Dee Baird and Butler Fondau were charged with creating a disturbance at the "Round Top," on North Sixth, last night. Holland was fined $20 and costs, Baird $1 and costs and the other was dismissed.

Gov. Durbin Coming Through

A special train bearing Governor Durbin, of Indiana, and party will pass through the city this afternoon some time over the Illinois Central from Louisville to Mississippi, the exact hour not having been stated. Governor Durbin goes to join the Roosevelt party to hunt bear in Mississippi and will be through Paducah again on his return.

FACTORY INSPECTION

Mr. Ludwig Finds a Number of Children Working.

Left Instructions With Managers and There Will be No Prosecutions.

State Factory Inspector Ludwig called on County Judge R. T. Lightfoot this afternoon and reported the number of cases he had found where children under the age of 14 were working. He has found in all the forty-two places he has inspected thirty-three cases where children have been permitted to work when they are not of the lawful age.

"These cases we must overlook the first time," Mr. Ludwig explained, "for we feel that the operators must not be perfect as to the law, and that it is impossible to get things running smoothly at first. At all places where we find dangerous machinery we suggest that it be encased to prevent a possible accident. If it is a dynamo or set of coggs that a person's clothes might catch in we suggest that it be encased. Stairs we suggest to be improved by a railing, and in this way we improve the safety of the machinery.

"Now this is my first inspection here, and I have left a circular with the law and the requirements with all factory operators, and there will hereafter be no excuse for a violation of the child labor law; and if, on my return, I find any violation, it will be reported to the grand jury."

Mr. Ludwig says he may return within a few weeks to see that things are being run correctly. He has no specified time for making inspections, but runs in when he thinks it is needed.

Another conspicuous fact that has come under Mr. Ludwig's observation is the ignorance of many of the factory employees. He tests their reading

SURPRISED HOBO.

He Thought New York Had Fast Trains.

But He Was Astounded at the Time Made By the Illinois Central.

There was a passenger aboard the special train bearing President Theodore Roosevelt, which passed through the city this week, who got more than he bargained for in the way of a ride.

This passenger was a young "hobo" who boarded the train at Kentucky street, Louisville, as it was leaving that city. He saw but three cars and a baggage coach and thought it was a local and decided to "shake" the town, as he expressed it. The train was moving slow and the tramp had no trouble in boarding the baggage car and when this was accomplished settled down to await the time an inviting station would be reached. He had been riding through New York, his home, on the big roads that make a mile a minute, but many stops and when the special began to make time, his hair stood on end. No stop was made until Paducah was reached and he fell off the train in double quick time. In relating his experience he said that he heard the trains in this state were slow but he was d— if he wanted to tackle any more. The tramp did not know that he had been riding on the president's special until after it had pulled out and he heard the station men talking about it.

Mrs. Carrie Nation Writes to Manager J. E. English of Paducah.

Says She Will Visit Relatives in Hopkinsville About Dec. 5 and Wants to Come Here.

PASTOR DECLINES TO TALK

German Lutheran Minister Declines to Resign.

The Congregation Somewhat Split up at Present—A Few Members Suspended.

An unusual and somewhat sensational state of affairs has recently, according to reports, developed in the German Lutheran church of Paducah on South Fourth street between Clark and Adams. Some of the members who were not satisfied with their preacher, Rev. J. H. Rupprecht got up a petition asking him to resign, but he declined to do it.

Rev. Rupprecht came here from near St. Louis, September a year ago, and is a quiet, scholarly gentleman, but it seems for various alleged reasons did not please some of his flock. Some say he is too strict, and some say that he is peculiar and others say he wants to "get them under his thumb." But whatever the cause dissatisfaction arose, and the petition was started.

Twenty-eight signed it. It is not known how many of the signers were "voting members," or heads of families who can vote, but two were "deacons," or officers who correspond to deacons in the Baptist and other churches. There are less than 40 voting members, and three or four hundred members of the church in all.

The petition, it seems which was sent to the synod, created quite a sensation in the church, and several meetings were held to settle it, but it seems to have refused to settle. Some of those who signed it afterwards appeared to regret it, and every time there was a meeting the members in favor of the pastor always had a majority and carried the day.

Finally a minister from St. Louis was sent here from the synod to smooth over matters but he is said to have failed. The upshot of the affair was that Monday nine of those who signed the petition were suspended from the church, it is claimed, and the remainder of the twenty-eight who signed the petition are under the rule of the church, which is said to practically mean suspension, until they withdraw their names from the petition.

One of the faithful who was ousted stated today: "We are simply going to stop our contributions until we get a new preacher. We are not talking of starting a new congregation as some have reported, as we think things will yet right themselves. We objected to the pastor because we did not like the way he wanted to rule us. He would not even permit the ladies to give entertainments and suppers to make money for the church."

A reporter called on Rev. Rupprecht this morning and asked for a statement from him relative to the case, but he said he did not desire to make any, and that those who were discussing the trouble were enemies of the church. He was told that the matter would be published as a news item and still declined to make a statement, saying that if anything incorrect was published he would make a public denial.

CERTIFICATES ISSUED.

ELECTION COMMISSIONERS FINISH THEIR WORK.

The election commissioners of McCracken county, Messrs. J. J. Doran, Joe Randall and Sheriff Lee Potter, completed their work yesterday afternoon and issued certificates to the successful candidates in the last election.

No certificate was issued to Mr. Harry Fisher, who received a number of votes for city clerk, but the vote was counted and recorded, which the commissioners deemed sufficient. None of the three was in favor of issuing the certificate, one stating today that if Mr. Fisher is entitled to one, he can through the courts compel the board to issue it, and thus remove the doubt in their minds as to whether or not one should be issued.

There is no form of musical entertainment that appeals directly to the taste of so large a body of the public as the military band concert. And of bands there is apparently no end in the country, for while the general government does little or nothing to forward this particular form of musical art, private enterprise is not backward in the exploitation of the native article or the foreign importation. The most signal demonstration of the popularity of the military band concert can be observed in the history of Sousa and his band during the ten years of its existence. The organization is a perfect artistic ensemble of its kind, and has done more to promote the cause of good music throughout the length and breadth of the land than all the erudit symphony orchestras combined, for Sousa reaches the great body of the people who love easily, as in the dramatized version the salient features of the novel have been preserved. There is nothing of importance in the book that has been omitted in the arrangement for the stage.

"Darktown's Circus Day," "The Whang Doodle Comedy Four," "Soldiers' Camp Glees," "A Festival of Parisian Melody," and ten top notch variety acts by Black Patti, the greatest singer of her race; John Buckner, "The Alabama Blossom;" Bobby Kemp, "The Shinin' Light;" Mack Allen, "The Equipoise Marvel;" the Hills, "Champion Cake Walkers of the World;" Emma Thompson, "The Black Lily;" Leslie Triplett, "The Filipino Funster;" Muriel Ringgold, "The Honolulu Buck Dancing Wonder;" Sisters Turner, "The Tennessee Thrushes;" Slim Morgan, "The Elongated Comedian;" Sallie Green, "The Indiana Nightingale;" Lizzie Garry, "The Unbleached Soubrette;" James Read, "Parson D. Sun, Dominee;" Ed Greene, "The Chesterfield Comique;" Clementine Pratt, "The Essence of Ole Virginny;" May Lange, "The Louisiana Lassie;" Anthony Byrd, "The Black Edouard De Reszke;" Will Cooke, "The Comic Cop;" Chas. C. Borgia and James Worles, "The Tyrolean Tenors;" and Weber and Fieldian ebony tinted chorus, are to be the features of the Black Patti Troubadour performances announced for an engagement Tuesday night, December 2, at The Kentucky.

Miss Henrietta Crozman, who will be seen at The Kentucky in this city this season in her big New York hit, "The Sword of the King," has had financial as well as other proof of her success in this play. For the first three weeks of her present engagement at Wallack's theater in "The Sword of the King" the receipts were just twice as great as they were for the first three weeks of her Broadway run in "Mistress Nell" two years ago. This difference may be accounted for in part by the size of the theaters, as Wallack's is much bigger than the Bijou theater, where "Mistress Nell" scored sudden and phenomenal fame. "The Sword of the King" is in every sense Miss Crozman's greatest achievement. It is the most massive production she ever undertook and is unanimously declared by the New York press and public to be the most brilliant performance she has ever given, while its financial returns are far beyond those of any of her previous undertakings.

The most realistic storm scene ever presented on a stage is the sublime spectacle "Crowned With the Tempest," one of the features of the $10,000 first part of the Al G. Field Greater Minstrels. The spectator sits looking at a scene of sunlight and splendor, when dark clouds begin to gather and the rumbling of thunder is heard in the distance. The sky becomes overcast, the vivid lightning plays across the firmament and the wind increases in volume and force until the hurricane breaks in all its fury and the rain comes down in torrents. Then, passing on, the clouds commence to break away, and in all its gorgeous colors a beautiful rainbow spans the sky, this fading slowly away as the glorious sun once more breaks forth, seeming to kiss with its last red glow the tops of the distant hills as daylight fades and the shades of evening approach. The mechanical and electrical effects used in this scene are the most complicated and expensive that have ever been employed in stage realism.

The Evening Post, Charleston, S. C., Oct. 2, says: The theatrical event of the early season occurred at the Academy of Music last evening in the appearance of Mrs. Brune in the title role of "Unorna." There was rather a slim attendance, but the audience was very appreciative. Mrs. Brune scored a distinct hit and received generous applause for her efforts. Her work was splendid. There were numerous dramatic situations with great possibility, and she amply filled the role. She displayed considerable versatility, which was required by the role. Possessed of great charm of personality and marked histrionic talent, she quickly gained the attention of the house and held it. She is a new star and has been little known to local theater-goers; on her next visit, however, she will attract a larger audience and will find that her appearance here in "Unorna" made many friends and admirers for her in Charleston. Indisputably she is one of the most promising young stars of the day and will yet make her mark upon the stage. Those who have read F. Marion Crawford's "Witch of Prague" recognized the play and could follow the action

The Chattanooga Times of Wednesday says: "Murray and Mack." The magical words that filled the opera house to overflowing last night, with all the standing room taken. Those two gentlemen in themselves constitute a good evening's entertainment, but when associated with a strong cast, a good chorus, the beautiful costuming, the catchy dancing and all the special features the entertainment afforded an audience of the best in Chattanooga was hard to excel. Everybody knows Murray and Mack, and they need no description. Suffice it to say they were in their glory last night and kept the audience in a roar of laughter the whole time.

The patrons of The Kentucky will be entertained Saturday night, November 22, by the big comedy production, "Uncle Josh Spruceby." This popular play comes well recommended and will no doubt be received with enthusiasm here. The piece is staged, with every attention to stage realism. All the scenes are well mounted and acted. The startling sawmill scene is said to be the masterpiece of stage mechanism. Many specialties are introduced and the superb solo orchestra carried by the company all go to make this a very delightful production.

J. Cheever Goodwin, the author of the book and lyrics of "A Normandy Wedding," which will be given here at The Kentucky on Thanksgiving matinee and night by the Grace Cameron Opera company, also wrote those two great successes, "Wang" and "Evangeline," besides "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" and many other musical comedies. The composer of the opera, William Furst, has two great successes to his credit also, "The Isle of Champagne" and "The Princess Nicotine."

Miss Genevieve Reynolds, the character woman of the Grace Cameron Opera company, which will present the latest comic opera success, "A Normandy Wedding," at The Kentucky on Thanksgiving matinee and night, was formerly a most valued member of the Empire Theater Stock company. She is said to be a most charming comedienne.

Miss Daisy King, the mezzo-soprano of the Grace Cameron Opera company, which has been secured by Manager English for The Kentucky on Thanksgiving, was last season a member of the Grand Metropolitan Grand Opera company, and in the part of Denise in "A Normandy Wedding" has an opportunity for the display of her superb voice.

Mr. Wili J. Donnelly, in advance of Al G. Field, was in the city last night and states that Mr. Field is now able to be with the company and will positively be here with the biggest troupe he ever had. In Dallas, Tex., the show had the "Standing Room Only" sign out three successive nights.

"The Tide of Life" was the sensation of New York during its run there at the beginning of the season. It abounds in realistic incidents, in which electricity plays an important part. The production in this city will be identical with that in the metropolis.

It is one of the best, if not the best, minstrel show ever seen in Lynchburg. Quinlan and Wall made a reputation last night that will always assure them capacity business.—Lynchburg News.

Otis Skinner will be here in "Lazare" New Year's eve.

GOOD RECORD

JUSTICE LIGGETT HAS MARRIED OVER 100 COUPLES THIS YEAR.

Justice Thomas Liggett, the popular "marrying squire" of Metropolis, Ill., has married 103 couples this year already and expects to increase it to 125 before the first of January. Justice Liggett's fame has spread far and wide, and he is one of the most popular men in the Grotto Green. He is always to be found ready to serve the public, and the number of marriages at which he has officiated in past years runs into the thousands.

One thing about Justice Liggett is that every cent he makes by marrying couples he gives to charity. In Metropolis he has built a pavement about a church and put up a handsome fence around a burying ground there with the money he has been paid for marriages.

FLAVOR DIFFERENCE

Pan-roasting is where most millers save time. Their oats are rushed-milled—for the profit's sake. Quaker Oats is milled with patience—for the quality's sake. But slow and costly as it is, there is profit in it—profit of quality, not the profit of cheapness.

The patient Quaker pan-roasting brings out the nut oil of the oats and toasts it to that rich "different" flavor, by which you know.

MISS JULIA BRITTON
A Young Society Lady of Augusta, Georgia.

1515 Estes Street,
AUGUSTA, GA., May 16, 1902.

I TAKE pleasure in joining the large number of testators who have been cured through the use of Wine of Cardui. It is certainly a very remarkable curative agent, and while it is pleasant to take and mild in action it is very strong and positive in curative ability. Since early womanhood I suffered from extreme nervousness and seemed unusually sensitive to climatic changes. A slight cold or too great heat would upset me and headache and general indisposition would result. My stomach was easily upset and I would frequently have heartburn, sour stomach, and the heavy feeling you experience when you have indigestion. I was also irregular and had severe monthly pains, all of which showed me that I was entirely out of harmony with health. I naturally desired a change and doctor for several months, hoping for better health. I was however disappointed to find that the medicine afforded me no relief. I noticed your ad in the street car and I bought a bottle of Wine of Cardui on my way home and great was my joy to find that within a few days it brought me great relief. My food seemed to digest without trouble, and the headache soon disappeared altogether. I kept using it until I had taken five bottles and felt that I had never invested any money in my life which brought such great returns. Within two months I was like a changed woman. My aches and pains disappeared as if by magic and new life and activity seemed to course through my veins. I began to enjoy out door life, long walks and exercise as never before. It is indeed gratifying to experience such a remarkable change in body and mind which perfect health brings, and believing that your medicine is well worthy of full confidence and endorsement I am glad to give it both.

Julia Britton

Young women cannot too carefully guard the monthly function. Women as a rule look upon this great function of nature as a trouble instead of a blessing. They seldom consider that it relieves the body of poisonous wastes and that a suppressed or a scanty flow is invariably a forerunner of sickness. Because Wine of Cardui perfectly regulates the monthly function hundreds of thousands of women owe their lives to it. Wine of Cardui as a regulator of the monthly function not only purifies the blood but it relieves weak and nervous women of troubles which doctors not only did not cure but do not often diagnose correctly. In thousands of cases of so-called "debility," "nervousness" and "tired, worn out feeling" Wine of Cardui by regulating the menstrual flow, has proven the remedy that was needed. If your doctor is doing you no good, secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui and take it in your home. It will cure you but you will only be one woman among thousands with the same experience. Remember Wine of Cardui cured Miss Britton. Accept no other medicine as a substitute. Give Wine of Cardui a fair trial and health will be yours.

WORK FOR LOWER RATES.

The retail merchants and professional men of Paducah who are trying to solve the telephone problem cannot be blamed, perhaps, for wanting to manage with only one telephone if possible.

It is extremely doubtful, however, if they will be able to accomplish anything along that line.

The best thing they can do, in our opinion, is to inaugurate a move for cheaper telephone rates in Paducah.

The people were led to believe, when the dual telephone system was being agitated in Paducah that rates would be reduced by competition.

If they are to be reduced, it is time there was some evidence of it.

The Sun opposed the dual telephone system because it did not believe it would prove satisfactory to the public, and foresaw just what these merchants, professional men and others see now and are trying to remedy, when it is too late.

The dual system was adopted and the thing to do now is to make the best of it and secure low rates.

It is averred by experienced men connected with both telephone systems, and who have had experience in other cities, that the plan to get along with only one telephone will in a city that has two systems never be a success, even if it should be adopted and tried.

It has never been successful in any other city where there were two telephone systems, and would hardly be here.

The two telephone companies are here presumably to stay.

They both say so, and it is reasonable to assume that they are.

As a consequence, as long as both are here, both will have business, and this business will consist of putting in telephones and furnishing service to the public.

And as long as they do this, some people are going to have one system and some another.

As to which will secure the greatest patronage is a matter to be determined later, and one which does not bear on the present case at all.

When some people use one system and others use the other, the merchants and others who transact business over the telephone, or have use for their telephone in business, will have to have both systems.

This being the case, it seems as if the most plausible effort to make is one that will secure lower rates.

With rates sufficiently low, people who want a telephone may have both in their residences or business houses, and not be any the worse for the two systems except from the trouble of having to answer two telephones, which will be more apparent in business houses than in residences.

Thus far the promised reduction in rates has failed to put in its appearance, and unless there is a reduction a hardship will be imposed on the people.

The service they are now getting is likely to be curtailed when the new company starts up, by some patronizing one and some the other, and if the rates are not reduced the public will be robed instead of benefited.

Youtsey has probably made no confession. The Democrats are only preparing for next year's campaign, and this reported "confession" may be a starter. Youtsey had his trial and would have been convicted whether the perjured testimony had been introduced against him or not. The juries in the Goebel cases are intended to convict, and they do their work well. But Youtsey, even if he had anything to "confess," has waited too long. No one will believe him if he should confess. Even the Democrats would not believe him, although they might profess to do so. He has told his story under oath. If he didn't tell the truth then there is certainly no reason for believing that he would do it now.

The Democrats are trying hard to stir up another political sensation, but it will fail flat.

If the Democrats knew anything they'd be only too glad to tell it. And not one of them has anything to tell except what he has heard that somebody else said.

Constantine Garcia, a Cuban, has about solved the problem of perpetual motion, and his way of living ought to be an ideal one, from the hobo standpoint at least. Owing to the red tape and strict immigration rules, he is a man without a home, and it is likely will have to be taken out to sea and unloaded, or carried to some isolated coast and marooned. Garcia went to New York on a ship from Cuba as a stowaway, but he was not allowed to land. The ship had to take him back to Havana, and there he was not allowed to disembark because he was a stowaway. He had to be taken back to New York, where the same performance was gone through with, and for four months he has lived a free and easy life between Havana and New York, with nothing to do but enjoy the sea breezes and ship's grub. At last accounts no satisfactory solution of what disposition to make of him had been reached.

General Young in his speech at Washington administered a deserved rebuke to the class of people and papers that have been abusing the American soldier, and because it was necessary in many instances to enforce severe and sometimes cruel measures against the treacherous savages of the Filipinos, accuse him of inhumanity and dishonorable conduct. General Young knows, and most of the people who have criticized the soldier do not. Their pious commiseration with the murderous savage was based largely on ignorance, and an imaginary sense of humanity. The worst feature of the treatment of the American soldier is that most of the vilification directed against him has been from irresponsible persons and politicians, and has been for the most part to benefit some one politically at the expense of the soldiers' good name.

A case has just been decided bearing on the issuance of bonds at Owensboro. Suit was brought, after $200,000 had been authorized by vote of the people for public improvements, to prevent the council from issuing them. It was claimed that the city did not have the requisite number of inhabitants, 15,000, to make the tax rate sufficiently large, but the court held that the ordinance stated that the population was over 15,000 and the court had no right to go behind this decision. The same principle would doubtless have held good in the late lamented injunction suit. The courts would have refused to go behind the act of the legislature declaring Paducah to be in the second class and ignored trivial technicalities.

Mrs. Eddy, at the head of the Christian Science cult, has sent out an edict that "Until the public thought becomes better acquainted with Christian Science the Christian Scientists, shall decline to doctor infectious or contagious diseases." The diseases included under Mrs. Eddy's ban are as follows: Smallpox, yellow fever, cholera, scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, chickenpox, mumps, typhoid fever and typhus fever.

it take to beat a man like that? The seat of president of the United States would be so large for vast majority of the leading Democrats that they would get lost in it and not be found again for a generation or two.

It appears that St. Louis is not a healthy place for boozers just now. It will be long time before they can get in their graft again like they have had in past years. The juries that try the cases seem to be thoroughly imbued with an adequate idea of what is expected of them, as the offenders, no matter how much money they have, or how prominent, all get heavy sentences.

I's Kansas again! This time a judge has made himself famous, and probably started a hegira towards Kansas, by deciding that a man may bury his wife alive. Disgruntled husbands must not become excited, however, until they hear the rest. The wives have to be "hypnotized" before they are buried, and few men can hypnotize their wives.

There is talk of forming a combine of steamboats between Cincinnati and Cairo. They had better be forming a trust to produce something for the boats to run in. Even a little "water stock" ought to help just now.

NO CAUSE.

EDWARD BARNHILL SHOT HIMSELF WITHOUT APPAR- ENT REASON.

Particulars of the suicide of Mr. Edward Barnhill at the Tulane hotel, Nashville, yesterday, have reached the city since his brother here, Mr. Al Barnhill of the La Belle park stockyards, left the city yesterday afternoon for Nashville.

Mr. Barnhill was a stock buyer and went to the hotel night before last without baggage. He was well known and was assigned a room, and after eating breakfast yesterday morning retired to his room again and shot himself about 10 o'clock, as a pistol shot was heard then, but no attention was paid to it.

Later in the day a friend called and was sent up to the room, and when he failed to elicit any reply to his knocks entered and found the young man lying across the bed, his head in a pool of blood.

The deceased was about 35 years old and was a nephew of the late W. P. Barnhill, and resided in Paducah for a short time a few years ago.

LETTER RECEIVED.

PILOT COLE DEAD MANY DAYS, IT IS THOUGHT.

Capt. Mark Cole yesterday afternoon received a letter from Capt. Tom Reeder of Florence, Ala., giving further particulars of the well known pilot's death. He had started out in a canoe to learn the river by taking measurements, etc., and as no boats were running it was very lonely in that part of the river. It was stated that he was seen Thursday at Florence, Ala., and no more until the following Thursday, when his body was found. It was lying in the bottom of the canoe, with the head resting on a seat, as if the deceased had gone to sleep and been stricken with apoplexy or heart disease in that position. The supposition is that he had been dead since the previous Thursday.

The remains were buried at Smithsonia, fourteen miles below Florence, and will remain there until some time in the winter, when they will be disinterred and brought to Goliad for burial.

THE ELKS MEMORIAL.

RABBI ALEXANDER WILL DELIVER THE ORATION HERE.

STRONG PROTEST.

PETITION TO THE WESTERN UNION RELATIVE TO THE FORMER MANAGER

It is understood that patrons of the Western Union Telegraph company in Paducah are preparing a petition to the company asking that former Manager Cobourne be taken care of. Mr. Quisenberry, the new manager, is a popular young man who is liked by everybody, and whose promotion is a source of gratification to innumerable friends, but the public seems to be very much displeased at the company's shabby treatment of Mr. Cobourne, who is turned out into the world after he has spent his life in the service and can do nothing else and learn nothing else. Many patrons even go so far as to threaten to boycott the company if it does not take care of the veteran manager. It is reported that Mr. Cobourne is to be pensioned, but no one here knows anything about it.

In the bazaar proper the ladies will have one of the handsomest displays of fancy and needle work ever seen, and it would be advisable for all who are planning their Christmas shopping to call to see the selection.

Committee Appointed to Look After the Association Subscription.

State Secretary H. E. Rosevear, of Louisville, arrived last evening to confer with local directors of the Y. M. C. A. and last night met nearly thirty of the directors and workers at the association building at the committee's tea served there by the ladies' committee.

Matters concerning the work of the association here were thoroughly discussed and it was decided to begin work taking subscriptions at once. Messrs. B. H. Scott, O. Q. C. Leigh and W. J. Hills were appointed to have charge of the work, and it is hoped to raise $1,500, about one-third of the budget expenses of the association, at once.

Other matters were discussed, and Secretary Rosevear stated that the next state association will be held at Lexington in February and will be one of the largest in the history of the state. It will be the semi-centennial of the association's establishment, and the twenty-fifth anniversary of its establishment in Kentucky.

SCHOOL TEACHERS LEARN

JUST LIKE OTHER PEOPLE.

Bad food and overwork wreck many a life, but the right food makes sure and complete happiness, for one must be happy if perfectly well.

"Grape Nuts saved my life, and changed me from a nervous, sick, despondent woman to a healthy, strong and cheerful one," writes Mrs. Alice Riegel of Pontiac, Ills. "I had not been well for several years and I thought as did my friends, that 'my days were numbered.' My ill health was caused from drinking coffee, eating improper food and overwork in the school room; I had become very weak, tired and nervous and nothing I ate agreed with me. Medicine made me more nervous and impaired my digestive organs." It was with difficulty that a neighbor induced me to try Grape Nuts and I liked it from the first with thick cream and sugar. I lived on it exclusively with Postum Food Coffee until my digestion was so much improved I could eat other foods. My friends soon noticed the improvement in my looks, and I am now healthy, strong and happy. I attribute the change in my health solely to the change of diet.

"Husband and I both like Grape

Nuts and Postum. I think they are the most healthful and strengthening of all foods and drinks and suitable for the weak as well as for the strong."

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. BETTIE NAPIER CALDWELL.

She has gone from darkness to light; from sickness to health; from trial to triumph; yet still in our ignorance we reach out vain hands and mourn our desolation, forgetting her eternal gain.

She loved life, and filled with the joy of living, scattered kindnesses with a liberal hand. No transmutes' crucible could have found alloy in the gold of her friendship, so she drew friends around her in bonds that not even death could unbind.

Young girls gathered about her eager for her affection, and sober age found in her ready response and sympathy. The friends made in youth found that neither time nor separation dimmed the luster of her memory, and sought her as affectionately as in the morning of their days.

Possessed of a bright wit and an inexhaustible fund of good nature, the hours in her company passed with flying feet, and we have stored away in memory many humorous sayings that will bring a smile to the lip and a tear to the eye when we recall the happy vanished days.

Sorrow and loss came into her life, as it too often comes to those who enter upon the high estate of motherhood, but it was sorrow and loss bravely borne, for it was loss that spoke to her of greater gain, and sorrow that heralded everlasting joy.

Her religious convictions were deep and unalterable; she burned the clear white light of her altar fire to the glory of God; and we have no doubt this light served to keep many a traveler on the dark road of life from wandering aside into the mire of indifference and doubt. It will be to the perpetual glory of her church that in her it has set one more star "clear-shining in the heavens."

TODAY MANY ARE OUT FOR QUAIL.

Today the quail law expires and the hunters can enjoy all the shooting they care to go in for.

Mr. H. C. Bronaugh says that he has had a rash of business selling loaded shells and other sportsman supplies and thinks there will be about 50 local hunters out after the quail today.

Several parties left early this morning for the brush and hunters are scattered in every direction through the woods. Tonight Messrs. Walter Wilkins, Arch Bohannon, Henry Dickey and several others will go up Tennessee river for ducks in the gasoline boat "Doctor".

The sportsmen are after quail today but there are a few ducks to be found and some are turning their attentions to the latter game.

Miss Hallie Sheppard returned to St. Louis today at noon after a visit to Mrs. John Clark of South Fourth street.

Boy Arrested at Mayfield for Trying to Wreck a Train.

Man's Horrible Death At Sturgis, Ky.
—Mining Near Madisonville.

NOTES FROM NEIGHBORHOOD

TRIED TO WRECK THE TRAIN.
Mayfield, Nov. 15.—As a result of an attempt to wreck an Illinois Central train, Sylvester Richardson, aged 15, who was found hiding in the woods, was arrested yesterday.

The attempt was made about one and a half miles from Mayfield.

The only reason there was not a wreck was the slow rate the south bound local train was run and the watchfulness of the brakemen who was riding on front of the engine. It is believed that if the fast mail and express had come along first that it would have been impossible to avert a frightful loss of life and property.

When the local arrived here, Chief McNutt was telephoned for and accompanied by Officer Will Waldrop, went on a hand car to the place where the wreck so nearly occurred.

A number of rail spikes had been placed across and along the rail by some one.

DRAGGED TO DEATH.

Sturgis, Ky., Nov. 15.—News has just reached here of the death of William Farley, who was at the home of his brother-in-law, Ben Hopgood, hauling corn to the shredder, when his foot slipped from the rest on front of the wagon, throwing him forward under the feet of the horses and the wheels of the wagon.

The team ran away and his body was dragged some distance under the heavily loaded wagon and badly mangled. He was picked up by others in the field and carried to his brother-in-law's home, where he died last night, after suffering intense agony. Mr. Farley was unmarried and a prosperous citizen. The funeral will take place today.

MARRIAGE IN GRAVES.

Mayfield, Nov. 15.—Cards have been issued announcing that at 9 o'clock a.m., November 17, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Yarbrough, a short distance northeast of Sedalia, Miss. Margaret Tennessee Yarbrough will be married to Mr. Edward Lee Wright. Mr. Wright is the son of Mr. Richard Wright of Wingo. At present he is studying for the ministry. After the ceremony they will go to Paris, Tenn., to attend the annual session of the Memphis conference of the M. E. church South, which begins Wednesday.

A REMARKABLE MAN.

Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 15.—Mr. G. S. Brown, of Salubria, Ky., is visiting his brother, of Madisonville. The visitor is 81 years old and has never been married. He is one of a large family of children and is a remarkable man. During his whole life he has never used tobacco, never tasted liquor, has never smoked a cigar, pipe or cigarette, has never taken a chew of tobacco, has never been sick a day in his life and has never taken a dose of medicine and has never used profane language. He is hale and hearty.

NEAR THE POSTOFFICE.

Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 15.—One of the most important discoveries of mineral bearing dikes yet made in Crittenden county is located hardly a mile from the Marion postoffice. It is a magnificent showing of lead and zinc ore bearing vein. At the surface it is fully 18 feet wide, fairly bristling with mineral.

LEAD PROSPECTS SOLD.

Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 15.—The sale of the Felix Cox lead prospects for $20,000 to A. M. Hulett of the Kewanee Fire Clay company, is reported, the terms being $1,000 cash, balance in twelve months.

MAY RUN FOR GOVERNOR.

Henderson, Ky., Nov. 15.—Malcolm Yeaman, the well known jurist of this city, may decide to enter the race for governor. He is being strongly urged to enter the contest.

There was a pause, during which Kendall's embarrassment, that had been less noticeable while his mind was bent upon a description of Elsie's injury, once more asserted itself. Brenda observed that his face was flushed and his forehead moist, and she was puzzled.

"Have you told her that I am here?" she asked. "Does she wish to see me?" "We have not mentioned it," he replied, "but you need have no hesitation. We have given her a very nice room," he hurried on. "You'll find that everything in the world is being done for her. Shall we go in?"

The other physician then came forward, and Brenda gave him her hand, though Kendall, in the extremity of his embarrassment, forgot to utter the form of presentation.

A straight and long corridor, the longest, as it seemed to Brenda, that mortal architect had ever designed, led rearward to the part of the building in which Miss Miller had been sequestered. Kendall led the way, and his colleague walked behind. For the third time that day Brenda experienced the sensation of surrendering her volition. The hospital became a prison; she was marching to some deep cell beyond the reach of rescue or the light of day. Then, in a moment, she saw Dr. Kendall open a door and step back that she might pass before him.

Brenda's first glance happened to fall directly upon the face of the patient, and she cannot truly be said to have seen anything else in the room. The bed was only an indistinct splash of white. The bare walls, the plainly curtained window, the nurse in profile, motionless as a figure on tapestry, entered into the feeling, but not into the view of the scene. She beheld only that sweet and sad little face, so pretty, so maidenly and tender. And the real essence of this despicable crime, the inconceivable inhumanity of it, seemed to speak straight to Brenda's heart in that language of nature which is without words.

Elsie's brown eyes opened wide. They had been half closed, and she had been looking at heaven knows what; nothing in that room surely, nothing that ever had been anywhere perhaps. They turned to Brenda with utter surprise.

"Miss MacLane!" she cried in a weak voice, but distinct as the tone of a little silver bell. "You have come to see me! How kind of you!" Then suddenly, "Why did you do it?"

Brenda sank upon her knees beside the bed and took Elsie's hand. "It was an impulse—a mere impulse," she said; "but I am very glad I came. I am so sorry for you. I am a good nurse. I have been taught. Will you let me stay here with you until you are well?"

Two tears gathered in Elsie's eyes and glided slowly down her cheeks. Her lip quivered like a child's.

"I shan't get well," she said. "I don't want to."

And then the tears came very fast.

CHAPTER VI.

AN ARGUMENT FOR THE DEFENSE.

WHEN one is in the valley of the shadow, age and experience may furnish many reasons for desiring to go farther in preference to returning. As a rule, however, these reasons are swallowed up in the instinct of living and in the interest one takes in one's own struggle with the dark angel. A physician will hear many people say that they do not wish to recover, but most of them will wait until after the danger is over before giving utterance to words which the supernatural powers may take too seriously.

Dr. Kendall was not in the least prepared to hear such an expression from this particular patient. He would have said that she was one who enjoyed life, every minute of it. Certainly, she was as full of natural vitality as a young fawn in the woods. Plainly Brenda was at least as much surprised as Kendall, and the physician awaited her response with critical interest. If she should ask an explanation or offer an argument, it would show that she had not the instinct of the nurse. It was in the nature of an examination, and Brenda passed it with great credit.

"If you will tell me I may stay," she said, "I will do something that will make you feel much better."

"You know that I want you to stay," said Elsie. "It was very, very good of you to come, and I thank you truly."

"Such being the case," replied Brenda, "I am going to fix your hair. One moment, while I make myself ready. And now," she added, "don't move; not a muscle. See, I can reach it without the slightest trouble."

And with cool and steady hands she arranged the brown masses in which there lurked a strange glow like red gold in the sun. It was cleverly done. Elsie felt the caressing hands, but they were so soft that not a tremor reached the wound. Dr. Kendall, observing closely, nodded his head as one who considers a question satisfactorily settled.

"Such beautiful hair!" said Brenda.

"You must be very vain of it."

But Elsie averred that she did not care for dark hair; it was so common. She would much rather have Brenda's.

"The entente cordiale is now fully established," said Kendall. "Miss MacLane, the patient is in your hands. I shall expect her to be playing golf in about a week. It won't be necessary for you to assist me any further, Dr. Johnson," he continued, addressing his colleague. "I will join you in my room."

Dr. Johnson bowed and withdrew. Dr. Kendall took a seat by the bed, and without appearing to do anything particularly important he determined with great thoroughness the condition of his patient. Not all that he observed would be comprehensible by a layman.

The most conspicuous feature in the case was the improvement of Elsie's spirits. She spoke cheerfully to Brenda and seemed to have acquired in so short a time a certain dependence upon her. Then, almost as she was speaking, her eyes closed, her hands upon the white coverlet relaxed, and she fell asleep.

Kendall and Brenda watched her in silence for a moment while the professional nurse, who had remained in attendance, adjusted the shades upon the electric lights.

"When she sleeps," whispered Brenda, "I would like to telephone to my father. Dr. Johnson told me that Mr. Alden is probably still held at the station. He must be or he would be here. My father must try to secure his release. By the way, of course Miss Miller asked for him?"

"For Mr. Alden? Yes," replied Kendall.

"What did you tell her?"

"We said that he had sent all sorts of kind messages and that he received constant reports from us, but that she must not ask to see him before tomorrow."

"Did she plead to see him at once?" asked Brenda.

Kendall hesitated for a moment while they were passing silently out of the room.

"Miss Miller is a very obedient patient," he said. "No one could give less trouble."

"Well?" rejoined Brenda. "Please proceed."

"I don't quite understand."

"You have something more to say."

"It occurred to me," said Kendall slowly, "that she exhibited less anxiety to see Mr. Alden than I should have expected."

This statement seemed to furnish Brenda with abundant food for thought. She said nothing as they traversed the long corridor, and Kendall also was silent. After Brenda had sent the message to her father she conferred with Kendall in regard to her remaining in the hospital as Elsie's nurse and then dispatched her maid under James' escort for such things as she would need.

The departure of the servants left Brenda and Kendall alone in the reception room.

"I wish you would tell me more about Miss Miller," said she. "I cannot understand why she should not have wished to see Mr. Alden."

"I did not say that," responded Kendall. "It was her manner that struck me as peculiar."

"She seems as unaffected and impulsive as a child," said Brenda. "I can imagine her asking for Mr. Alden naturally as if he had been a drink of water."

"That is precisely what she did not," said the doctor. "Let me tell you just what happened. When she was brought to the hospital, she was unconscious. For certain reasons we took her to the room where she now is, though that would not have been the ordinary course. While I was making my first examination of the wound she began to revive, and I believe that she regained the full command of her faculties within a few moments. It is not always possible to say just when a patient's mind becomes effectually clear, but I am perfectly sure that Miss Miller's was wide awake some little time before she chose to let that fact appear."

"You must remember that we overestimated the gravity of the wound and indeed were expecting the worst at any moment. Considering the nature of the case, it was important to question her immediately. I asked her who had inflicted the injury, and I know that she heard and understood me as well as you do now, but she made no sign. After her first view of the place, which she must have recognized as a room in a hospital, she closed her eyes, and I think it must have been a matter of five minutes before she opened them."

"Thinking," said Brenda, "thinking. Poor child!"

"Though she is obviously abnormally sensitive to pain," Kendall continued, "she bore what had to be done with the fortitude of a Christian martyr. I made up my mind after awhile that a miracle had protected her and that she had a chance to survive; therefore I ceased to ask questions, deciding to let her take her own time. When she spoke, it was not in reply to me, and she seemed to address no one. 'I am going to die,' she said, and then she be-

HIT HARD PLACE.

COLORED RAILROAD EMPLOYEE NEARLY KILLED YESTERDAY.

Bob Smith, colored, an employee of the Illinois Central at Dyersburg, Tenn., narrowly escaped being killed yesterday while at work repairing the track.

Smith and several companions were repairing a broken rail and Smith was shoving a tie under the steel when a companion accidentally struck him in the head with a large, heavy maul. Smith was rendered unconscious and was for a time in a serious condition. The injury however, will amount to no more than a scalp wound, very painful but not serious. The wound was dressed by a local surgeon.

COAL ADVANCES.

THE PRICE DOES NOT BENEFIT THE DEALER, HOWEVER.

Today coal advances in price again but the dealers declare it is of no benefit to them.

Yesterday lump was selling at 13 cents per bushel and nut at 12 cents, but today lump brings 14 and nut 13 cents. In speaking of the advance one dealer said: "We have been instructed by the mine operators to advance the price one cent today, as we will have to pay more. This is not to better the retail dealer for we make the same profit on the coal that we did when it was selling for 10 and 11 cents. I do not know that the increase benefits the miners or the operators but it certainly does not benefit the dealers."

Coal is scarce here but there is no need for alarm. There are several dealers who have more than enough to last them through the next two months but some have a hard time getting their coal. There is no hard coal here, but very little is used.

NEARING THE END.

FACTORY INSPECTION WILL SOON BE OVER.

Factory Inspector Ludwig is nearly through with his work in Paducah and will finish up the first of next week. He has inspected nearly all the factories here and finds them in excellent condition. He intended to start in on Mayfield this week but decided to wait over until next week. After his return from Mayfield he will finish what remains to be done in Paducah and will leave for Princeton and other cities on the Illinois Central line that he did not visit coming down.

Neither Manager Quisinberry nor former Manager Cobourn have learned whether the Western Union intends to take care of Manager Cobourn by giving him another place.
